A Message From Chairman Nick Anderson

As we wrap up this year's Airliners International and celebrate the 50th year of this show, I am extremely thankful for all of you for your support.

While I have only attended these shows for a couple of years, many of you have been here year after year, dedicating your time and energy towards Airliners International. You, the attendees, are what makes these shows the great experience they are.

In a divided world, I think it is important to remember that no matter where you come from, what your background is, or what you like, we are all united through our love for aviation and passion for this show.
